

Some said, John, print it; others said, Not so; Some said, It might do good; others said, No.

—John Bunyan

On midnight returns from New Hampshire's presidential primary election General Eisenhower was leading Senator Taft 15,097 to 12,757 for the Republican nomination — close enough, considering that the general's New England backers had advertised that in New Hampshire he was invincible.

But this time the headlines in Republican New Hampshire were reserved for the Democrats. With half the state counted the mid-night totals showed Senator Kefauver beating President Truman, 10,955 to 9,283.

I don't ever recall of a President, while still master of the federal machine and still avowedly a potential candidate for re-election, losing in his own party primary, before this.

Senator Kefauver said over the radio just before midnight that the returns were not to be construed as a judgment of the administration. He pointed out that he campaigned as a Democrat and as a supporter of many of the President's policies. And he said Mr. Truman didn't personally appear in the New Hampshire campaign "or the results might have been different."

I discounted the Tennesseean's words 100 per cent. He is an independent character and a long list of visitors have come away from the White House with the unanimous report that Mr. Truman dislikes him.

The Democratic returns in New Hampshire speak for themselves. Too much mink.

I am always distressed by having to read unbelievable reports in print, especially when they appear in my own paper. You read "em and you squirm. Then your friends start debating 'em and you feel a sharp sense of outrage.

Like the AP dispatch about the Conway "monster" The Star published yesterday. I quote:

"Dillon was running a trotline one day when the thing floated to the surface, he raised the line. The creature stared at him! It had green spotted skin similar to that of a frog and a monkey-like head. Its lips were blue; it had no teeth. Its hands were the size of a man's but it had web fingers and claw-like nails.

"I've never been afraid of anything," said Dillon, "but you notice I'm not fishing there anymore."

That's the sort of thing that makes a scrupulous editor feel like reaching for the telephone, calling up Associated Press Bureau Chief Justin Anderson in Little Rock and uttering that showman cry, "Dear Andy: Please cancel our subscription!" But it's not that easy. It takes two years to resign from the AP. Besides, Andy would only argue: "If we didn't run it the United Press would."

And he would say: "They read it, didn't they?"

Yes, they read it. But they can read this, too: I have long had a conviction that a fisherman, whether in a small boat or big one, whether propelled by oars, sail, or power, in shallow water or deep, should never drink anything stronger than beer.

For the peace of mind of editors and the public tranquility.

I just tumbled to something. All these inquiries that are coming in to me about words have nothing to do with higher learning — they are "stumpers" that the jerk who makes up our crossword puzzles threw in when he had to have something to fill in a five-letter space on the vertical. It has to be vertical, for the gent's meaning is seldom on the level.

The other day it was a squabble over "iterate" versus "reiterate." They mean the same thing, but the only one you can get published in a newspaper or magazine, meaning "to repeat," is "reiterate."

Here's a new case: "Ravel" and "unravel" — don't they mean the same thing?

No they don't. "Ravel" (from the Middle Dutch "ravelen," and the Dutch "rafelen" means: To let fall into a tangled mass. "Unravel" (from the same Dutch base) means: To disentangle.

Under "ravel" the dictionary quotes Shakespeare's famous line: "Sleep, that knits up the raveled sleeve of care." The average reader pictures Shakespeare's sleeve as unraveled, since the line mentions that sleep knit it up. But the word he used was "ravel," meaning disordered — a disorder which sleep smoothed out.

What am I doing explaining all this? I never worked a crossword puzzle in my life. On the level — or the horizontal, as you fans put it.

Connally, Taft Both Remain Sensitive

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, March 12 (AP)—After a few years in politics many a man develops a skin so thick it never twitches when the opposition pulls him by the ears.

Not so with Sen. Taft and Sen. Connally. They've served long and been in many Capitol battles, but both men remain as sensitive to criticism as anyone in Washington.

Let a Democrat stick a needle in Taft as his Senate desk and the Ohio Republican develops a real redness which manifests itself in a sudden busy shuffling of his papers.

And when a Republican roughs on Connally, the white-haired Texan Democrat looks like a thermometer in mid-July. His face reddens. He practically dances up and down in his desire to talk back.

This week he got pretty rough on Taft, who went down to Connally's own Texas to criticize him. This isn't the first time Taft blasted the Truman foreign policy and Connally, who is the Democratic chief man on foreign affairs in the Senate. But most of Taft's remarks about Connally had been made here in Washington.

This time Taft cut loose on him and President Truman in Texas where Connally is running for reelection.

The Texans accused Taft of trading his integrity for a few shiny votes. And more of the same. What he said about Taft and what the Ohioan's Republican Senate colleagues said in Taft's defense provided a fiery few minutes in the Senate.

Because of the emotional nature of the oratory historians may not consider it to be quite the same intellectual level with some senatorial discussions of the past.

For example, here is a little discussion between Connally, Sen. Butler, Maryland Republican, and Sen. Millikin, Colorado Republican, who got in on the act after Connally flared at Taft for being in Houston instead of in Washington.

Butler—I should like to ask the senator from Texas where the President of the United States is today. The President was in Key West, Fla.

Connally—It is not my business to find out. The senator from Maryland can go ahead and hunt him up. If the senator from Maryland does not read the newspapers and if he does not have sufficient information on what is going on in the world to answer that question, he has no business to ask anybody else about it. I would suggest that the senator from Maryland read the newspapers.

Butler—I should like to very much.

Connally—I would suggest that the senator from Maryland read the newspaper.

Butler—Has the senator from Maryland read the newspaper?

Connally—Would you say to the senator from Maryland: "Go ahead and read your paper this afternoon."

Butler—Where is the President of the United States? I have read the paper.

Connally—That is exactly it. The senator from Maryland ought to read the paper. God gave him eyes to read with. Why does he not use his eyes?

Butler—I will tell the senator where the President is. I would like to be in a hell of a fix.

Taft, Truman

related over the results. I don't think this is a protest vote against President Truman, because in general I agree with Mr. Truman. The senator added that he intends to enter as many primaries as possible.

Neither the President, vacationing in Florida, nor Sen. Taft, campaigning in Texas, made a statement.

Taft's campaign leaders canceled on defeat shortly after 3 p.m. E. Johnston, secretary of the state's Bob Taft Club, declined.

"New Hampshire Republican voters have expressed their desire in the preferential primary," he said. "We wish to congratulate Gen. Eisenhower on his victory."

Johnson added, "As Republicans we shall support the nominee selected at the Republican convention."

Truman's political leaders in the state could not be reached for a statement and on to a late hour they had issued none.

In the republican primary, Harold E. Stassen, ex-governor of Minnesota, had approximately 5,000 votes out of the nearly complete ballot count. Stassen was entered only in the preferential ballot, he had no delegates in the race.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur was given approximately 2,700 Republican votes in the primary. None of the persons who ran as delegates favorable to him was elected. MacArthur had requested his admirers not to enter his name in the "popularity" primary.

Sixteen names appeared as winners of the Democratic balloting of the primary. New Hampshire Democrats cast more than 100 votes each for Eisenhower and MacArthur, along with a smattering for John Foster Dulles, Taft, Stassen, Gov. Earl Warren of California, Sen. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, and Louis D. Schneider, St. Louis attorney.

Democrats receiving write-in votes included ex-postmaster General James A. Farley, Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois, Sen. Paul Douglas of Illinois, Vice President Barkley and Sen. Russell of Georgia.

Some observers considered it significant that Paul Hoffman, former administrator of ICA, was the first to issue a victory statement for Eisenhower. It came at a time when the general was trailing Taft by a few hundred votes.

There have been recurring reports that Hoffman might be asked to take command of the national Eisenhower organization. Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts is now national chairman.

expect a WSB decision in 10 days or so.

4. Steel men looked for a WSB recommendation calling for an increase of 15 to 20 cents an hour. They matched it against an expected Capehart Amendment allowance of $2 a ton—and claimed they need a $5 to $8 price rise to make a deal.

Adm. Moreel, chairman of J & L's board of directors, told newsmen last night that steel needed compensating prices for any pay boost or the industry couldn't keep going.

He said J & L, as many another steel firm, had heavily increased its debt to meet government steel production and export quotas, and thus needed revenues sufficient to pay off the obligation.

Asked what would happen if the steel industry was faced with a recommended wage boost outdistancing an allowable price increase, Moreel said:

"We have two alternatives: One is to accept the wage recommendation and die by inches. The other is to refuse to raise wages and face a strike, closing down our plants."

'Phone Firm Says Rate Hike Too Little

Little Rock, March 12 (AP)—Southwestern States Telephone Co. says it still won't earn the legal 6 per cent return on its investment even if it gets a proposed rate increase.

The statement was made by L. B. Ford of Brownwood, Tex., the company's chief accountant and controller.

The Allies seek inspection of equipment only to make sure it is a replacement.

Kinney said Chang indicated the Reds would press for a sweeping ban on naval blockades.

Previously the Reds tried to omit the word "Korea" from a paragraph providing there would be no blockade of Korea during an armistice. The U. N. Command had interpreted this as a move to keep an Allied naval force from blockading the China Coast.

"We want to be sure," Kinney said, "that any commitment of the U. N. Command is clearly understood and stipulated as applying only to Korea."

heads defied both a government injunction and their national leaders, who yesterday agreed to abide by the injunction and ordered the members back to work.

At Toledo, Vice President Harry A. Porch of the Brotherhood of Engineers said "we are having a meeting at 9 a. m." It was assumed that the meeting was called to discuss the rebellion.

The NYC at Toledo—a key spot in the railroad route—said "we can't possibly get things rolling before noon anyway," even if the members voted to return to work.

There also were brief flareups in Chicago, Cleveland, and Niles and Jackson, Mich., where the union members balked at returning to their jobs. But in each case, the minority leaders were voted down.

At Toledo, however, the rank and file of the three railroad brotherhoods shouted down their leaders when they were told that officials of the unions had bowed to a government order to get the strike-bound railroads running again.

The pickets immediately took up their stations.

William G. Chase, assistant New York Central superintendent at Toledo, said the situation there looked "very unfavorable" for a resumption of work.

Presidential Picture May Be Altered

Manchester, N. H., March 12 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's primary sweep over Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) and President Truman's upset defeat by Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn.) may alter the presidential race sharply.

The outcome of yesterday's first 1952 GOP ballot test points to a bitter fight between Eisenhower and Taft forces at conventions in such states as Iowa and Michigan, alluded by another head-on meeting of the two in the April 15 New Jersey primary.

It apparently destroys any chance Taft may have for a quick nomination at the July Chicago convention, despite his lead in the national delegate race.

Kefauver's amazing sweep of the preferential popularity balloting and the eight-vote Democratic convention delegation could mean the propulsion of Truman into the race for another term.

Eisenhower's approximately 10,000-vote margin in the popularity test with Taft, plus his collection of the state's 14-vote delegation, is accepted in some quarters as an indication that the general won't have to come home from Europe to campaign.

To Taft the loss of all of New Hampshire's delegates and his defeat in the popularity contest was a teeth-rattling blow at a time when he believed his vigorous campaigning was going to pan out.

The Ohio senator has a chance to show his vote-getting prowess in the April 1 Wisconsin primary, but there he is matched with only minor candidates.

The real test for Taft will be his primary meeting with Eisenhower in New Jersey.

Eisenhower's New Hampshire victory may make it easier for some Republican leaders to abandon their fence positions and make up their minds. The results here will be seized upon by Taft's opponents as an indication they should press their fight on his foreign policy views. Gov. Sherman Adams, who led the Eisenhower delegate ticket, called Taft an "isolationist."

Truman's friends are divided on his possible reaction to the primary defeat. He might be angry enough to run again. Or he might pass it off and await further developments.

Paradoxically, Kefauver's victory here may not have helped his chances for the party nomination very much. It will seal him off from any chance to get Truman's support and it will tend to bring other Democrats together in a stop-Kefauver drive.

Memphis Firm Low on River Job

Tulsa, Okla., March 12 (AP)—Apparent low bidder yesterday on Arkansas River bank stabilizing and channel straightening work between Wilson's Rock and Fort Smith, Ark., was the Mississippi Engineering and Construction Co., Memphis.

The company's total bid on two lots specified by the U. S. District Engineers' office was $1,131,500. The government estimate was $949,000.

The S. E. Evans Construction Co., Tulsa, bid $1,000,000.

Arkansans Give More Than Received

Little Rock, March 12 (AP)—The federal government has received more than one billion dollars in taxes from Arkansans during the 18 years.

But a joint congressional committee in Washington says that during the same 18 years, the state received more than 985 million dollars in federal government disbursements.

The U. S. Internal Revenue office here said yesterday the exact tax payment figure by Arkansans from 1933 through 1951 was $1,012,695,400.

One Arrested in Robbery at Reno

Reno, Nev., March 12 (UP)—Millionaire La Vere Redfield, speaking from bitter experience, said today that if you've got a few million dollars kicking around, don't hide it in the closet at home.

Put it in the bank.

It was sound advice from a man who paid $2,500,000, by his own reckoning, to find out. The FBI said it really was closer to $1,500,000.

Whatever the exact figure, burglar 12 days ago carted off Redfield's 400-pound safe from his gloomy stone chateau. It was crammed with cash and securities.

The robbery—executed in broad daylight—came off while the family dog, Mac, chewed happily on a lambone. Redfield himself was playing roulette at a downtown casino.

The first break in the case came yesterday when an attractive red-head's passion for playing blackjack tripped a chain of circumstances which resulted in the arrest of an ex-convict in connection with the robbery.

Andrew R. Youn, 46, was picked up yesterday in his shabby apartment in Milwaukee, Wis., and several hours later was arraigned on a federal charge of transporting stolen property across the state lines.

The mysterious redhead, whom authorities refused to identify, unwittingly touched off Youn's arrest when she attempted to cash a $1,000 bill during a gambling spree at Reno's Riverside Hotel Casino.

The huge bill aroused the suspicions of Mert Wertheimer, co-owner of the casino, and he signaled the cashier to check it against a list of the currency missing in the Redfield robbery.

At first she couldn't find the bill's serial number on the Redfield list. A few minutes later, however, she matched it.

Wertheimer called the redhead into his office.

"You're in trouble—real trouble," he told her and called police. When they arrived, the girl said "a guy in Milwaukee" had given her the $1,000 bill along with several $100 bills, one of which she had cashed a short time before she tried to break the "G-note."

The FBI went into action and a few hours later Young was in custody.

Robert Murphy, FBI agent-in-charge at Milwaukee, said "about $800" in currency was found in Young's apartment, but that he was unable to trace the money to the Redfield burglary. A further search was planned.

Redfield, meanwhile, took the announcement that Young had been arrested as calmly as he had taken everything else in the robbery.

"Gosh," he said. Since the robbery, he said, he had only slipped into town twice. And both trips were for questioning at the district attorney's office.

The millionaire, who likes to wear old clothes, does his own shopping and enjoys an occasional crack at Reno's roulette tables, said with a chuckle that there wouldn't be any return robbery engagements so far as he was concerned.

"I assure you it won't happen again," Redfield said. What if police recover the money? Will it go in the bank? "I hope to tell you," Redfield said.

Pope Is Fond of Pet Goldfinch

Vatican City, March 12 (AP)—Pope Pius XII is so fond of his pet goldfinch that he takes it with him to his Castel Gandolfo summer home when he goes there each year, a Vatican source said.

The tiny singing companion has privileges no human being can be permitted.

Since he became Pope 13 years ago, Pius XII has eaten his frugal meals alone in his Vatican apartment.

But the little goldfinch "Gretel," who years ago fell from its nest in the Vatican garden when it was a fledgling, has grown up in the Pontiff's apartment and hops onto his table while he eats. The Pope feeds it crumbs.

The little bird is of the Carduelis family of finches, slightly smaller than a sparrow, and in Europe—frequently kept in a cage as canaries are. They are noted for their song.

Upon the occasion today of the 13th anniversary of his coronation the Vatican's L'Osservatore Romano wrote of the Pontiff's busy day and said "Gretel" sings while he shaves each morning shortly after 6:15 a.m.

As soon as the buzzing of the Pope's electric razor begins, said again, Redfield said. What if police recover the money? Will it go in the bank? "I hope to tell you," Redfield said.

Negro Nurse Seeks to Enter LSU

Baton Rouge, La., March 12 — Louisiana State University under a federal court order to present more evidence in the case of a Negro nurse seeking court authority to enter the LSU School of Medicine's nursing department.

U. S. District Judge J. Sk. Wright directed the university's attorneys to submit additional affidavits within 10 days.

The action came in yesterday hearing and followed a motion the nurse's attorney for final judgment.

The motion was filed by attorney A. P. Tureaud of New Orleans.

Durley Foster of New Orleans. She seeks a permanent order preventing the LSU Board of Supervisors from barring her or other qualified members of her race from entering the nursing department of the LSU School in New Orleans.

The nurse is director of the Fil Goodridge Hospital at Dillard University in New Orleans. She obtained a temporary federal court order Oct. 18 allowing her to register.

She is attending classes now. Several other Negroes are attending nursing classes but are registered from Dillard University, Negro institution.

The nurse charged in her case she was refused the right to register because she is a Negro. She said she wanted to take a course in advanced surgical nursing.

LSU has been directed to all Negroes in the Law and Graduate Schools and has two Negroes in the Law School, seven in the Graduate School and one in the School of Social Welfare.

The lady had waited long at Agriculture Building. An assistant asked if he could help.

"No, I don't want to see an assistant. I want to see the Secretary of Agriculture himself."

"He's not in, madam. Can't tell me what you want to see him about?"

"Well, I have a geranium that not doing so well."

School Money Looking Up for Next Year

By The Associated Press

Arkansas schools will receive at least as much state revenue next year as they have this year, and local tax income probably will be greater.

A. B. Weatherington, director of finance for the State Department of Education, told school administrators from 17 East Arkansas counties in Forrest City Tuesday that 1952-53 school funds from the state probably will be about the same as for the 1951-52 school year.

The WMS will continue these programs and offering for Home Mission on Thursday and Friday morning at 9 o'clock. All members are given a special invitation to attend. This week's programs have been planned by the 2nd vice-president, Mrs. Royce Smith.

Weatherington said that a general increase of property assessments will increase local tax income for the schools. Increased millage in many districts was cited as another factor for greater local income.

Several school districts in Arkansas will seek increased millage rates next Saturday in the annual school elections.

It will be the second "annual" school election in less than six months. This situation was brought about by an act of the 1951 legislature which changed the time for the elections from the last Tuesday in September to the third Saturday in March.

A. W. Ford, assistant state education commissioner, said Tuesday that a considerable number of districts would ask the voters to approve hire rates.

After reports from leaders and committees Mrs. Mark Jackson led the discussion on the last half of the cancer program.

Mrs. Blackwood gave the demonstration on "Ironing a shirt in 4 1/2 minutes."

During the recreation period the leader directed some interesting games. She suggested that a different member bring something for a prize each month and demonstrate how to make it.

Delicious refreshments of sandwiches, cookies and hot chocolate were served by the hostess.

The next meeting will be April 1 in the home of Mrs. George Boozer.

DOROTHY DIX False Friends

Dear Miss Dix: Some time ago I met Gary, and though it wasn't exactly love at first sight, we liked each other from the beginning and had many things in common. We began to go steady, and some of my girl friends told me I was making a mistake because he had gone steady with several other girls. Then my parents stepped in and made me break off because of our youth — he was 19, I 16. We continued to see each other, and my friends continued to advise me. One girl, especially, told me tales that made me break off completely with Gary. Now he is going with a girl who always told me she thought he was a drip when he was going with me. They are going steady, and she thinks he's marvelous. Gary and I see each other in school and sometimes I think from the way he looks at me that he still likes me. I'd like so much to go with him again, but don't know how to go about getting him back.

FRANCESCA A.

Answer: You have been a very glib victim of not one, but two very vicious "friends." One succeeded in getting you to break off with Gary while another stood by ready to take up where you left off. Obviously, none of these girls are friends in any accepted sense of the word. You made the commonplace adolescent error of making a friend out of every acquaintance and schoolmate. Being so trusting has been a costly experience.

It bents me why a girl who won't take a word of advice from her mother is so easily convinced that all her contemporaries are oracles of wisdom, fully capable of plotting their own and anyone else's course of life.

Form Your Own Opinions
By now you realize the necessity for discretion in following advice, especially that given to freely. You also, I sincerely hope, have learned not to listen to vicious gossip, but to form your own opinions.

A girl who cannot get a boy friend herself, or who cannot get the one she wants, enjoys nothing so much as spoiling another girl's dating. Most girls are no more discerning in such a case than you were. The insidious underlining that can be done with a few malicious lies, strategically placed, is appalling. A boy's character, or sometimes another girl's, can be wrecked in a few days. Aren't you ashamed for letting yourself be taken in by such cheap gossip?

Gary, of course, is now in the clutches of one of these despicable females, and deserves sympathy. None of it was his fault. You are now entitled to win him back by any means at hand. Make an all-out campaign of it. Invite him to a party — even if you have to tramp up an occasion to have one yourself. If he has a birthday conveniently near, send him a card. In fact, send him a card for any near-future event. With the wide variety of greeting cards on hand today, you are bound to be able to find one to serve your purpose. Even St. Patrick's Day will do! Let him know that while your parents won't permit you to go steady because of your age, you do like him very much and would like to date him again. I hope the campaign is successful, but in the future be on guard against your girl friends.

Dear Miss Dix: I am going

Answer: Your girl friend is actually a demanding little minx, and is using some of the lowest tactics known to females in order to test your devotion. She most certainly does not want you to go with other girls, but you are supposed to continually cater to her lack of interest in any feminine company but hers. This gets very tiresome after a while, and I think rebellion is in order. Why not surprise her some time by deciding to take her advice? You'll have a very amazed and annoyed gal on your hands but it may stop her nagging on the subject. I really do think you'd be better off with a girl who was a little more advanced — intellectually and emotionally. This one is destined for eternal childhood, marked with a ceaseless demand for attention. This means a difficult life for those who have to do the catering.

Dear Miss Dix: Are my father and mother right in objecting to me kissing my date good night? I am 15 and go out quite often with different boys. They are all very nice boys and my parents like them.

PAT

Answer: They are most definitely right! In fact, your parents are too liberal in the matter of your dating. At fifteen, "quite often" is too often to go out. Two nights a week would be a generous dating allowance. The other five nights should be devoted to study — which you could use! Bestowing "good-night" kisses on every boy who takes you out is going to earn you the unenviable reputation of being cheap, and before long you'll be on the tabu list of every nice boy and girl.

Downey Looks Into HAC's Findings

Little Rock March 11 (AP)—Federal Prosecutor Tom Downey is looking into findings of the Arkansas Highway Audit Commission.

The HAC's formal report on an investigation of Highway Department operations between mid-1947 and mid-1951 was released last Saturday. It said operations were characterized by dishonesty and extravagance and recommended that Downey and Atty. Gen. Ike Morley take action if they found indications of criminal offenses.

Downey said today it probably would be about two weeks before any definite action would be taken.

The assigned Deputy Prosecutor John Jernigan to assist him in studying the HAC report, which was highly critical of Gov. McMath's administration.

Murphy told the Arkansas Democrat by telephone today from El Dorado that he plans legal action to recover money paid out illegally in State Highway Department transactions as disclosed by the commission.

"In every instance where the state stands to recover money paid out illegally we intend to file suit," Murphy said.

Burke Brushes Off 'Hex', Wins Meet

Miami, Fla. March 12 (AP)—It was the 72nd and final hole of the Los Angeles Golf Tournament and it looked as if Jack Burke was going to shake off a jinx that had plagued him more than a year.

His ball lay 20 feet from the cup. All he needed to do was to hole out in two putts to start 1952 as a champion.

The handsome, 29-year-old Texan wanted that victory in the worst way. Seven times on the 1951 circuit he was a runner-up, but never a winner. Now the top prize that eluded him through so many holes had eluded him through so many holes in his grasp.

But Burke three-putted to throw the tournament into a playoff which he lost to Tommy Bolt and "I got the sick feeling that I wasn't ever going to win again."

Nothing happened the next few weeks to bring Burke out of the blues. He was 15th in the San Diego Open, fifth at Phoenix, out of the money at Tucson, and 16th at El Paso.

Something had to be done. At San Antonio, in a moment of desperation, Burke threw away the old English blade putter he had used for four years and bought a mallet-head club.

On the first hole of the Texas Open at San Antonio, he sank a 15-foot putt with the new club. It turned out to be the first blow of the year's most sensational golf winning streak.

He won the Texas Open with a 72-hole total of 289, a record 34 strokes under par. A week later, he captured the Houston Open in 277, tying the course record. Then he won the Baton Rouge Open in a playoff and the St. Petersburg Open with a record-shattering 208 to make it four in a row.

CHAPTER FORTY-ONE
FAH SOO bent over the table, spilled some of the liquid from the bottle into Liddell's glass.

Kaiming removed the cigarette holder from between his teeth, removed the butt, crushed it out. "Who then?"

Liddell took the glass from the outstretched hand of the girl, shrugged. "Let's take another look at this character. It's somebody who knew the old country connections of the local Chinese. Somebody who knew I was on the case, was able to put a tail on me, thus know that I was close to Lunfar and Brin," he tabulated. "It was somebody who knew that I had seen Golden in the house where Hong was killed, who would thus know I had recognized her at Brin's party. It was somebody who could get Celia and Golden hidden out in the heart of Chinatown."

Kaiming pursed his lips thoughtfully. "A very powerful person."

Liddell nodded. "A tong leader usually is."

Kaiming looked tired. "You suspect me? How ridiculous. Your tongue was licked in the last long war. You told me that yourself. That means you lost the concession to run the Fan Tan. You lost the best locations for restaurants and other rackets. In other words, your tong was practically broken." He looked around. "This place cost a fortune and some of those ginerecks in the other room two fortunes. So, obviously you've hit on some source of revenue. It isn't legit or the other tong would have taken it over."

Liddell nodded. "More ingenious than for you to arrange to have someone waiting for me in that passage near the Fan Tan game. No one but you could have known I was on my way over there. Why didn't you finish me there?"

Kaiming looked up at the fragile Chinese girl. "Why indeed? Perhaps the lovely Fah Soo would like to explain."

"The lovely girl bowed her head. "You're right, Liddell. My tongue was licked by you. You were right, Liddell. Drink. It will be faster, more merciful." He glanced up at the girl. "Where she comes from they do not know the meaning of mercy."

The girl glanced at him with distrust. "It is well my superiors sent me here to keep an eye on weaklings such as you. You are willing to take our gold, but you cringe at the work you must do to earn it."

Key Doody Seeks Second Victory

Hot Springs, March 12 (AP)—Mrs. J. L. Oglesby's Key Doody went after her second victory of the Oaklawn Park season today in the featured Little Rock Purse over a mile and 70 yards.

Key Doody faced much the same field that she trounced in the Velda Rose Motel event over the same distance last week.

Others entered were Swap Out, Count-A-Bit, Elm Art, June Bonus, Ira C. Battle H., and Convidade.

My Time registered his second consecutive win of the season, taking the Texarkana Purse yesterday, March Proudly, the favorite was second, and Evidence was third.

My Time paid $9.60 straight and was turned in 1:41 for the sixth furlongs over a heavy track.

Dayton Licks Highly Rated St. Louis Team

New York, March 12 (AP)—The University of Dayton basketball team, which had its first fling at the "big time" in the finals of the National Invitation Tournament last year, wanted to meet highly rated St. Louis this year just as a measure of satisfaction.

Dayton got its wish last night and the result was satisfactory not only to the Dayton players but to a majority of the 14,112 spectators in Madison Square Garden.

Sparked by tall Don Meineke and chubby Leland (Junior) Norris, the flyers whipped St. Louis, the second-seeded team in the tournament, 68-58. Top-seeded Duquesne performed about as expected in beating Holy Cross, 78-68, in the second game of the doubleheader.

As a result, Dayton will encounter St. Bonaventure and Duquesne will meet LaSalle in the semi-final games tomorrow night.

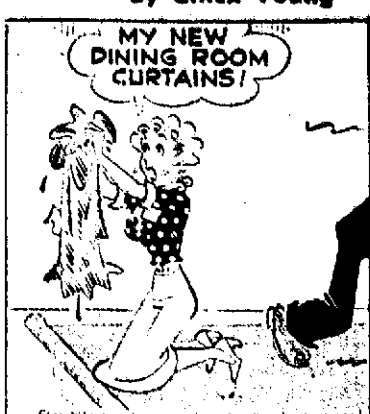

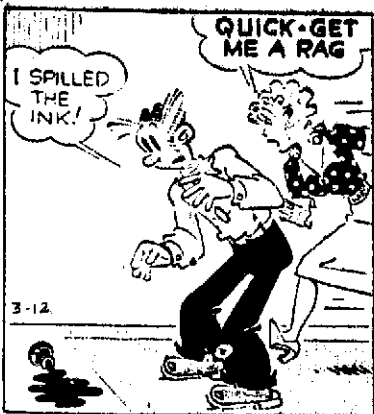

It isn't often that Dayton gets into basketball's major leagues. Brought in last year just to "round out" the field, Meineke, Norris, Pete Boyle and Compas, captivated the fans and almost walked off with the honors. Unseeded this year, they're threatening to do the same.

Coached by cagey Tommy Blackborn, a part-time golf professional, Dayton jammed the area under the St. Louis basket on defense, came up with most of the rebounds and dominated the entire game.

St. Louis, the Missouri Valley Conference champion and a candidate for the National Collegiate A. A. T. title, never was ahead.

SIDE GLANCES

By Galbraith

"Maybe we ought to let them decide our foreign policy."

Russia Wants Meet to Unite All Germany

Moscow, March 11 (AP)—The Soviet Union proposed today an immediate Big Four conference to create a united Germany and prevent a divided Germany and prevent a peace treaty barring the Germans from alliances aimed at ending their World War II enemies.

Western observers in Moscow predicted the United States, Britain and France would turn down the proposal, which included a detailed outline of principles that the Soviet Union would be the basis of the peace treaty. The Russians, said, additions of Prussia and other projects also.

West Germany is one of six governments negotiating to form a European army linked to the Atlantic Alliance against communism—an alliance which Russia has insisted aggressively directed a gain in territory.

Daily Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko handed the plan to Big Four diplomats in Moscow last night. It was made public almost immediately. In early morning Soviet broadcast and the morning editions of Pravda and other papers.

In Washington, the State Department's press officer, Michael McMurtry said early today the text of the note had not been received. There would be no U. S. comment until State Department officials have a chance to study it.

The Russians said they wanted Big Four talks on German unification and on the treaty to begin "without delay" and asked Western answers to their notes "in the shortest possible time."

"The signing of a peace treaty with Germany will be conducive to the improving of the international situation of affairs as a whole, thus being conducive to the establishing of a stable peace," the Soviet communication said.

Russia put the unity of Germany ahead of a peace treaty draft, saying the treaty must be worked out with the participation of a general German government.

After the Big Four and Germany agreed on a draft, it would be presented to an "international conference where all the interested states would be represented."

The Soviet list of principles for German peace seemed identical with previous Russian proposals on the subject.

They called for putting the German border on the lines set by the Big Four in the 1945 Potsdam conference. This gave a big slice of prewar East German territory to Poland but the West has declared the decision was temporary, subject to revision in a peace treaty.

The Russians also proposed Germany has land, naval and air forces "essential for the defense of the country" and be allowed war industries only big enough to equip these permitted forces.

Occupation forces would be withdrawn within a year after the peace treaty became effective.

Non-Payers Hurt Hospital

West Memphis March 11 (AP)—A city of paying patients has been hit by the new Crittenden County hospital into financial difficulties.

A city administrator Richard F. Hays said the 100-bed institution needs a government loan to tide it over until it can support itself.

County Judge W. K. Ingram last night said he had called Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark.) in Washington. Ingram asked Fulbright to arrange for a discussion of a Reconstruction Finance Corporation loan.

Since the hospital opened last

State Guard to Add Air Units

Little Rock, March 11 (AP)—The Arkansas National Guard will add five new units to its air arm this year.

Arkansas Adj. Gen. John B. Morris said yesterday the new units would be located at Little Rock, Hot Springs, Pine Bluff and Stuttgart.

Arkansas now has three Air National Guard units in federal service—the 154th fighter squadron, the 120th aircraft control and weather squadron and the 201st target squadron.

To be formed this year are the 154th tactical reconnaissance squadron and the 118th technical reconnaissance squadron at Little Rock; the 223rd radio relay squadron at Hot Springs; an aviation engineers company at Stuttgart and an aviation engineers battalion headquarters unit at Pine Bluff.

Connally and Taft Swap Verbal Blasts

Washington, March 11 (AP)—Enlivening the political war of words, Sen. Taft of Ohio and Sen. Connally of Texas traded sharp verbal volleys yesterday from a shooting distance of about 1,200 miles.

Taft, a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, fired first from Houston, in Connally's home state.

In a campaign speech, the Ohioan ripped the administration's handling of foreign policy and said Connally had declared a month before the Korean War started that "we wouldn't do anything about it if the Communists moved into South Korea."

Connally, a Democrat running for reelection to the Senate, promptly let fly with an answering barrage from the Senate floor. Taft said he had no comment on Connally's reply.

The tall Texan accused Taft of being a "chameleon senator" willing to "subordinate his integrity and his truthfulness in order to grasp a few shiny, filthy votes."

Connally, shouting angrily and waving his arms, said Taft had charged that the Truman administration "invited the Communists into Korea," with "an assist" from Connally as chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Connally's blast kept his Senate colleagues late for dinner by touching off a lengthy and stormy debate. Democrats came to his defense and Republicans lit into him.

In Houston, Taft's mention of Connally's name brought scattered boos.

The Ohioan said the Communists had taken Connally and Secretary of State Acheson "at their word and moved in" to South Korea.

He said both Connally and Acheson had declared in advance that the United States would let them, Connally said Taft was "cavalierly going around begging a few shiny, filthy votes."

That brought Sen. Hickenlooper (R-Ia.) to his feet demanding that Connally be seated under Senate rules prohibiting a member from impugnating the honor of another senator.

Sen. Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex.) moved that his colleague be permitted to "proceed in order" and "proceed in order" and "proceed in order."

October it has been ready to handle at least 50 patients. But Scruggs said not more than 30 had been entered at any one time.

This lack of patients, he said, contrasted sharply with badly overcrowded hospitals across the Mississippi River in Memphis.

Congo Variety Watermelon Is Rapidly Making Progress as Best All-Around Producer

By STUART C. SIMPSON
Monticello, Florida

From reports in the areas of Florida already planted, Congo variety has made a spectacular increase in percentage of total acres planted. Our reports indicate that in 1951, there was less than 2 percent of the acreage planted to Congo in the Leesburg area and in 1952 about 30 percent. This is a terrific increase and since almost all the melons planted in that area are either Black Diamond (Florida Giant, Texas Giant or Cannonball) or Congo, the increase had to come at the expense of the Black Diamond type. This naturally brings up the question as to whether or not the quality of Black Diamond type is deteriorating or "running out," or whether the Congo is a superior type.

In my opinion, the seed stocks of Black Diamond type are generally as clean and of as good quality as they have been in previous years. The Black Diamond type remains a good shipping type and should continue to be popular for some time. It has much that is desired in shipping variety—it packs well, ships well and is well received in the market—usually it cuts well on arrival in market.

Then, is the Congo a superior variety? In some ways yes and in some ways no. Congo's resistance to anthracnose helps the variety terrifically. Those who had a hand in breeding the Congo have never claimed it to be resistant to wilt. However, the Texas experiment station found it to be about as resistant to wilt as other wilt resistant varieties. No Congo seed (to my knowledge) has ever been sold as a wilt resistant variety and yet, growers are finding they can plant Congo on used watermelon land successfully after much shorter elapsed time than other non-resistant varieties.

More Per Acre

Congo is well received in most markets but what pleases the grower most, and they account for such increase in planting, is that the Congo vine is green and putting on melons long after most other varieties are dead. This means an increase per acre in melons and in money.

Congo has been a little disappointing in its carrying qualities because of its tendency to bruise at the blossom end. Also, under certain conditions Congo will break away in the heart, causing many ears to be ship non-inspected or unclassified. Most Congo growers though claim they get as much for unclassified as they do No. 1 in other varieties.

So Congo and the Black Diamond type will both be with us awhile. Now as to what's to come or is coming—the wilt resistant Dixie Queen looks good in that it is a better melon than the old Cuban Queen ever was—is a good shipper uniform in growth, prolific and early. Its main drawback would be that it does not reach the really large size of some other varieties.

Midget Melon

New Hampshire Midget seems to be getting a play in a small way—but because of its rind structure the only thing that could ever put this melon over in a big way would be the absolute demand from the American housewife for an ice box sized watermelon.

The New 48-12

A new USDA variety, 48-12, is looking good. It is a wilt and anthracnose resistant Garrison type with a tougher rind than Garrison.

In our field trials this summer, we expect to have several new

Rad Attorneys Question FBI

Los Angeles, March 11 (AP)—Defense lawyers resume their attack today on the testimony of undercover agent Daniel Scarletto, who told the FBI about the movements of six of the 15 California Communists now charged with conspiring against the government.

Cross-examination of Scarletto, fourth government witness, developed a broadening picture of the Communist party's tears in recent years.

Scarletto said that the Marxist Institute School, which he attended in 1949 and 1950, was discontinued for security reasons, then later resumed at another location.

The young undercover man said he worked at the Lockheed aircraft plant at the time, but later was laid off. Asked if he had been advised by party members to quit, Scarletto replied:

"I was told there was no need for sabotage while there was no war going on." The answer was stricken on defense objection.

The World War II airman earlier testified that he had reported to the FBI from the moment he joined the party in July, 1947, until he quit last week.

The California Communists are charged with conspiracy to teach and advocate overthrow of the government by force.

All-Negro Staff at Industrial School

Little Rock, March 12 (AP)—An all-Negro staff, first in the history of the Negro Boys Industrial School at Wrightsville, Ark., is to be appointed.

The school's board of trustees yesterday instructed its newly-named Negro superintendent, John Rollins, to employ a Negro farm manager, assistant farm manager, bookkeeper and blacksmith. These jobs formerly were held by white employees.

Twenty of the 67 minor boys in the penal institution were ordered paroled within the next two months.

Pastures Pay Dividends to J. O. Phillips

Good pastures pay dividends to livestock farmers, is the opinion of J. O. Phillips of the Sweet Home Community.

Mr. Phillips operates a 250 acre farm in that community. His primary interest is general and livestock farming. In his own words he says:

"Two years ago some of my pastures would have hardly supported a goose. Now by properly fertilization this same pasture is carrying two head of cattle per acre." He says he gets excellent results from both superphosphate and potash. He further thinks that it pays as much or more to fertilize his pastures as his row crops.

Mr. Phillips never fails to take advantage of all the assistance available through the county PMA committee. Without this assistance it would not be possible for him to continue to improve his pasture to the extent necessary, he says.

Last year alone Mr. Phillips secured the following materials and assistance through the PMA farm program:

3400 Lbs. 50% Muriate Potash
700 Lbs. Hairy Vetch
100 Lbs. Kentucky 31 Fescue
100 Lbs. Singletary Pens
40 Lbs. White Dutch Clover
200 Lbs. Annual Ryegrass
70 Lbs. Reseeding Crimson clover

To date this year Mr. Phillips has obtained prior approvals for 400 Lbs. of annual lespedeza and 2500 lbs. of 50% muriate of potash.

According to Earl Martindale chairman of the Hempstead County PMA Committee prior approvals for superphosphate, potash, limestone and all adapted pasture grass and legumes can be obtained by all eligible Hempstead County farmers by contacting the County PMA office.

Purchase orders are also available for most materials. Assistance is also available for those farmers in need of stock ponds for livestock water, the chairman said. Mr. Martindale urges all producers desiring assistance to contact the county office on their next visit to Hope. The PMA office will be open Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Fair Enough

Rome—Regardless of its effect on the glib Italian factory hand and the simple side-hill dodger prancing his grapes and hoeing his artichokes, the vision of the United States that is presented by the political agents of the Truman administration through the United States information service at your expense is, in round numbers, a pack of lies.

"According to law," says a propaganda tract on our union monopolies, "workers have the right to organize unions as they think best." This is an outright, deliberate lie appealing to a nation which, frankly, enjoyed life under fascism with its corporations of labor managed by a cabinet officer. The workers in the United States lost their right to "organize unions as they think best" when a circle of New Deal conspirators, whose identity never has been frankly revealed, concocted a fascist law called the Wagner Act which forced millions of our people to become members of and pay political extortion to subsidiaries of the Democratic party. Those who tried thereafter to organize free union to protect themselves against the Communists of the CIO, some of whom were close friends of Franklin and Eleanor Roosevelt and of Felix Frankfurter, and to break the power of gangsters and other dictators of the A. F. of L. were denounced as "dual unionists" and "disrupters." Some were killed.

One of those who lost his life was shot dead in front of his modest home in Chicago a few days after he had given evidence to a federal building regarding the income of William E. Maloney, the president of the operating engineers' union, a racket of history nooriety. His name was William Bruce Ziegler and he had tried to clean up a rotten condition in his own local. He had a wife and several children. After he gave evidence regarding Maloney's income under the stupid assumption that the federal government would take appropriate action and give him police protection, he telephoned the treasury agent one evening in great fear to say that two officials of the national union had chased him a downtown street. As he got away, he heard one of them yell "Go damn you; we will get you yet."

The agent was not a policeman and therefore could not attach himself to Ziegler as a bodyguard. Within the week, it happened that the street light nearest Ziegler's home was out of commission and he returned at night from his futile search for work in a town where the union blacklist revokes the right of decent men to earn their living. In the dark, he was shot dead. Nobody ever was arrested. If the treasury ever found any fault with Maloney's tax returns the information was not revealed.

The treasury agent carefully recorded the facts.

And the picture of that same Maloney, stout and prosperous and dressed in luxurious tweedy stuff, was published on page one of "AFL news-reporter" in the issue of Jan. 30, which covered the winter meeting of the grand inner circle of high binders at Miami Beach.
